| the state of the s | 2, | A training course has been started in the Polish Red Cross Center in Stettin at the intersections of Aleje Wojska Polskiego and Aleje Stalina. Its intended duration is from one to five years. Approximately 130 candicates have been selected from among personnel who have performed medical work for a considerable period. The candidates, not all volunteers, include both men and women between the ages of 30 and 50. A similar course has been started somewhere in Silesia. | | | | |
| · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · | 3. | Forty-five additional training courses for army surgeons or assistant surgeons have been organized in other parts of Poland. The courses are for a three-year period and the requirement for entrance is a secondary school certificate. After completing their studies the students have a short period of practical experience, after which they are eligible to take examinations at the Medical Academy to qualify for a degree of Doctor of Medicine. | | | | |
